Revised JULY 2010

PROGRAM NARRATIVE

A. PROBLEM DEFINITION

1. Identify the nature and magnitude of the specific problem existing in your particular community that needs to be addressed through this proposed project. Document the need, not the symptoms or solutions. Be sure to include current valid local data or state data, if local data is not available, to support the justification. Give the source and date of your information. State the needs of your agency and the needs of the victims in your area as related to this problem and justify the need for the proposed project.

Research both in the U.S. and internationally has shown that the fields comprising violence against women - stalking, domestic violence, dating violence, and sexual assault - are all areas in which professionals need specific training (Journal of Violence Against Women, 15, 1, 2009). While multi-disciplinary, collaborative approaches involving representatives from all fields that will be working with the victim have been found to be ideal (Practice Nurse, 38, 3, 2009; Journal of Criminal Justice, 36, 3, 2008), very little opportunity exists for these professionals to be trained together and therefore have a more complete understanding of one another's roles, mandates, and ethics (Journal of Interpersonal Violence, 25, 2, 2010). In Louisiana, as elsewhere, very little training is available on violence against women at all; almost no such training is required, and when it is offered, it is generally aimed at one profession, rather than being offered to the breadth of professionals that comprise a truly multi-disciplinary approach.

2. Describe gap in community resources and how the gap was identified. Explain what need is created by this gap in services/programs.

Throughout the state of Louisiana there is a dearth of training on the crimes of stalking, dating violence, domestic violence and sexual assault. When training is provided it is usually aimed at only one professional group - for example, social workers or SANE nurses - and does not take into account the critically important role of collaboration among and between the various members of the criminal justice system and the social services/support system for victims of these crimes. There are very few requirements mandating that the various professionals be trained on these crimes and their impact on victims; given the economic climate, this often means that law enforcement officers, judges, prosecutors, and advocates do not receive any information, support, or training at all before they interact with victims or work on these cases. This can lead to both re-traumatizing of the victim and a less than ideal response to the case, particularly if lack of training and supervision/support has led one or more professional to have a negative interaction with the victim that causes her to be unwilling to cooperate with further investigation or prosecution. This conference aims to help alleviate that lack of training, and also to provide an environment in which professionals can meet, network, and brainstorm ways that they can work together more collaboratively on cases involving violence against women.

B. GOALS

GOALS: The primary mission of all projects is to have a positive impact on the victims, not just to accumulate statistics on how many are served. Based on the problem identified, BRIEFLY state what the project hopes to accomplish. Do this by providing a clear statement of the effect this project will have on the problem.

The goal of this project is to provide training to service providers, officers, prosecutors, and other professionals who respond to cases of stalking, sexual assault, dating violence, and/or domestic violence.

C. OBJECTIVES

OBJECTIVES: Provide at least TWO (2) measurable objectives for EACH goal. Objectives need to be measurable, observable aspects of the program. Identify who, what will change and by how much. Use absolute numbers, not percentages and be sure to include a baseline number.

1. A minimum of 200 professionals will be trained at the conference, including advocates, law enforcement officers, attorneys, nurses, and corrections/probation & parole officers.
2. A minimum of 20 professionals who would not otherwise be able to attend the conference will be supported in their attendance via partial or full scholarships.

1. Training Curriculum (topics to be included):

General topics: stalking, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence

Specific topics are listed on the attached agenda/brochure

Statewide

5. Dates and hours of training: 17.5

6. Location of training: Baton Rouge Marriott
